In 20 Women on Life in the City of Light, twenty women from around the world share their unique experiences of living in Paris. From falling in love with the city's beauty and culture to navigating its challenges, these women offer a fascinating and intimate look at what it's really like to be a woman in Paris.

The women featured in this book come from a variety of backgrounds and perspectives. There are artists, writers, entrepreneurs, students, and stay-at-home moms. Some have lived in Paris for decades, while others have only recently arrived. But all of them have a deep love for the city and a desire to share their experiences with others.

In their essays, these women explore the many facets of life in Paris. They write about the city's beauty and charm, as well as its challenges and frustrations. They discuss their experiences with love, loss, work, and family. And they offer their insights into what it means to be a woman in a city that is both celebrated and criticized for its treatment of women.

20 Women on Life in the City of Light is a must-read for anyone who has ever dreamed of living in Paris. It is also a valuable resource for women who are already living in the city and want to connect with others who understand their experiences.

Praise for *20 Women on Life in the City of Light

"A fascinating and intimate look at what it's really like to be a woman in Paris. These essays are full of wit, wisdom, and heart." — Emily Weiss, founder of Glossier

"A must-read for anyone who has ever dreamed of living in Paris. These women's experiences are both inspiring and cautionary, and they offer a unique glimpse into the Parisian soul." — Hanya Yanagihara, author of A Little Life and *The People in the Trees

"A beautiful and moving collection of essays that explores the many facets of life in Paris. These women's stories are a reminder that the city is both a place of dreams and a place of challenges, and that it is ultimately up to each individual to find their own way." — Sarah Jessica Parker, actress and producer
